GRIDIRON KINGPINS

The story of the Chicago Bears is best told in one word . . . SUCCESS. And the Success Story of football's most famous team is written around the fabulous career of George Halas, the founder, who, for the greater part of thirty-five years, has been the Spirit, the Moving Force behind the Chicago Bears. The Bears were born in 1920 at Decatur, Illinois. They moved to Chicago at the age of one, but were still known as the Staleys until 1922, when the name "Chicago Bears" became official. Under the guidance of Halas, and with mighty gridiron warriors . . . Grange, Nagurski, Manders, Luckman, McAfee, Turner . . . spearheading the march . . . the Bears have set the pattern, written the record books, revolutionized football—have captured the imagination of millions all over the nation.

Bears in action against New York Giants in 1933. Bill Hewitt pitches lateral pass to Bill Karr (No. 22) just as Giant tacklers move in.

The Bears were the first pro football team to go into training. They were the first team to barnstorm, to take the game to the "hinterlands." The Bears were first to cover their field with a tarpaulin; first to have a team song: first to pack stadiums from coast to coast. The Bears developed the modern T-Formation, and through its successful use, introduced football for the fans . . . wide-open football. It was only a matter of time when the rest of the football world had to get in line. They all adopted the "T," patterning it after the "T" of the Bears.

The Bears were first to form an Alumni, composed of the players, who, in their

The Bears were first to form an Alumni, composed of the players, who, in their Bear uniforms, wrote history on gridirons from New York to California. This Bear Alumni organization includes prominent medical men, business executives, nationally famous sales heads, civic officials and top football coaches. The spirit is transmitted from one Bear team to another, from the Healeys and Lanums and Kopchas, to the Bratkowskis, the Dooleys, the Harlon Hills, the John Hoffmans and the Herman Clarks, It's called the esprit de corps.

The Bears' song summarizes the story:

Bear Down—Chicago Bears, make every play clear the way to victory; Bear Down—Chicago Bears, put up a fight with a might so fearlessly. We'll never forget the way you thrilled the nation, with your T-Formation. Bear Down—Chicago Bears, and let 'em know why you are wearing the crown; You're the pride and joy, of Illinois. Chicago Bears—Bear Down!

Red Grange still is the most publicized, the most fabulous football player of all time. After winning word acclaim as the Galloping Ghost of the University of Illinois, he joined the Bears on Thanksgiving Day, 1925. The Bears, with Grange, made the sports world pro football conscious. Fans all over the land flocked to see the Redhead. Packed stadiums watched the Bears play in Chicago, Pittsburgh, New York, Detroit, Miami, New Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco. Grange, more than any other player, helped to put over professional football. Today he lives quietly and happily in Florida, while acting as one of the nation's top football telecasters and after-dinner speakers. Grange also is a successful insurance broker.

Ken Kavanaugh scored the greatest rumbers of touchdowns of any Bear player —55. He ranks with the foremost pass receivers of all time.

Dr. Danny Fortmann was one of the youngest players ever to join the Bears. As a guard, offensively and defensively, he had no equal. He is a prominent Los Angeles surgeon today.

Dr. William Osmanski was a standout in his first season with the Bears. He will always be remembered for his 71 yard touchdown sprint which started the Bears on their 73 to 0 triumph over Washington.

Johnny Sisk played with the Bears in the "thirties" and was known as the Big Train. Today he is one of the country's leading insurance sellers.

Dr. Johnny Siegal played with Sid Luckman at Columbia. He starred at end in 1940-41-42. Siegal is a successful dentist in Plymouth, Pa.

Carl Brumbaugh was one of the greatest quarterbacks ever to play with the Bears. He was known as "the brain." Brummy has been an outstanding teacher of "T" quarterbacks.

Sid Luckman is rated the top T-Formation quarterback of all time. He set the pattern for Otto Graham, Bob Waterfield and all of the T-quarterbacks who followed him. Luckman joined the Bears in 1939, after winning his spurs as a Single Wing tailback at Columbia University. His willingness to work extra hours in mastering the assignments of a Bear quarterback made him the great field general who led the Bears to five Western titles and four world championships. Sid has been just as successful in the business world.

Bronko Nagurski is an all-time Bear and ranks as the greatest fullback ever to step on a gridiron, The Bronk returned in 1943, after six years' retirement to lead the Bears to the world championship again.

Ray Bray was a Little All American from Western Michigan State Teachers College of Kalamazoo. He played on three Bear title teams, Bray is associated with Cadillac Motor Division.

Ed Healey was the first player purchased by the Bears. George Halas rates him as one of the two greatest tackles in the club's history.

Bill Hewitt was the terror of his day. No end before him, or since, attracted as much attention. Hewitt was fatally injured in an auto collision ten years ago.

George Musso was a bulwark of the Bear forward wall in the "thirties." The "Moose" also was a great field leader. He is a deputy sheriff in his home town of Edwardsville, Ill.

Dr. Joe Kopcha was the first of the Bear Doctors. He earned all-league honors several times at guard before retiring to his practice in Gary, Ind.

Jack Manders scored more points than any other player in Bear history. His touchdowns, field goals and extra points accounted for a total of 401 points. Automatic Jack, as he was best known, joined the Bears in 1933 after winning All-American recognition at the University of Minnesota. Bronko Nagurski was the kingpin of all fullbacks in those days, so in order to take advantage of Manders' all around ability, George Halas switched Jack to right halfback. In addition to his ability as a runner and kicker, Manders also was a fine pass receiver, a great blocker and one of the deadliest tacklers of his time.

Mike Holovak played with the Bears in 1947 and '48. He was a heavy duty fullback. Mike is a successful young head coach at his alma mater, Boston College.

Hugh Gallarneau played on what many regard as the greatest football team of them all—the 1941 Bears. Today Hugh is a rising young executive of Marshall Field & Company.

George Wilson, captain of the Bears for five seasons, and a member of four title teams, has been a standout assistant coach of the Detroit Lions since leaving Halas U.

Jim McMillen played guard for the Bears in the days of Red Grange. Today he is Mayor of his hometown, Antioch, Ill.

Beattie Feathers made football history in 1934 when he gained 1,004 yards, even the missing the final three games of the season. He teamed up with Brumbaugh, Manders and Nagurski.

Bob Margarita starred with the Bears in the War Years (1944-45). He excelled both on offense and defense. Bob is a top young coach at Harvard University.

George McAfee is an all-time Bear halfback. George Halas rates him among the top four halfbacks in gridiron annals. He joined the Bears in 1940 and became the most feared runner in all football. Mc-Afee's exploits in 1941 were the most outstanding by a halfback in one season of play in National Football League annals. He averaged less than a third of a ball game and still managed to run wild against every team in the loop, breaking up at least five games. Observers figured that McAfee would have set all-time marks for most touchdowns in one season and most yardage in one season if Halas had turned him loose. A knee injury suffered in 1946 dimmed his later years.

Ronzani

Walquist

Ingwersen

Forte

Lanum

Gene Ronzani played halfback, fullback and quarterback for the Bears. He joined the coaching staff after retiring as a player and was head coach of the Green Bay Packers for four seasons.

Ray Nolting was known as the "king of quick opening" runners. Like many other Rears, he came up from a small college—Cincinnati U.

Laurie Walquist was one of the early day Bears, following George Halas up from the University of Illinois. He is associated with the Chicago Furnace Supply Company.

Bert Ingwersen was a member of the first Bear eleven. Today he ranks as one of the nations foremost line coaches, being a member of the University of Illinois staff.

Al Forte starred with the 1940-41 Bear championship elevens. He has been a successful assistant coach with the Detroit Lions for the past five years.

Jake Lanum was the fullback of the 1920 Bears. Although not a physical giant, he was one of the top backfield men of his day.

TRAINING WITH THE BEARS

The 1955 Chicago Bears pitched their training camp for the twelfth straight summer at St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Ind. George Halas and his coaching aides led 37 rookies, plus the veteran quarterbacks and centers, to camp on July 19th, The veterans, 31 strong, plus 3 returnees from the Service, reported for training one week later. Twice-a-day drills went into effect on the first day of practice.

The average day at the Bears' training camp went like this: "bugle call" at 7:30 a.m.; breakfast at 8; calisthenics and practice at 9:30—lunch 12:30; second practice and calisthenics, 3:30 p.m.; dinner 6:30; blackboard drill 7:30 p.m.; lights out, 11 p.m. To combat the extreme hot weather, the Bears worked out from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m. on days when the temperature was scheduled to reach 100.

The Bears began training at St. Joseph's in 1944, to prepare for the All Star Game. It is an ideal training site, with three first class practice fields, a modern field house with locker rooms and training table, excellent housing for the players and the best in food. The college is located in Northeastern Indiana in one of the nation's finest farming areas.

Bob Williams elects to run with ball and picks up 19 yards from his own goal line after failing to find eligible receiver. This picture was taken during Williams' second season with Bears (1952) vs. Rams at Los Angeles.

ANNUAL ARMED FORCES BENEFIT FOOTBALL SERIES

The Armed Forces Benefit Football series was inaugurated in 1946, following a meeting in Washington attended by Dwight D. Eisenhower, then Army Chief of Staff; Admiral Chester N. Nimitz, representing the Navy; General Ira Eaker, acting for the head of the Air Force, General Carl Spaatz; George Halas and Ralph Cannon, then sports editor of the Chicago Herald-American.

The game has been played every year since. It was sponsored by the Herald-American again in 1947, and by the Chicago Sun-Times in 1949-1950-1951-1952-1953 and 1954.

This year marks a new era in the history of the Armed Forces Game. The four great Chicago daily newspapers, the American, Daily News, Sun-Times and Tribune have joined together to sponsor the great game, collaborating through the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' Association. Through their great co-operation, the series is expected to reach new heights and achieve a goal far greater than the originators could visualize back in 1946.

The nine Armed Forces games to date have netted $378,350.76 to the official relief agencies of the Army, Navy and Air Force, which share equally in the net proceeds. They are the Army Emergency Relief, the Navy Relief Society and the Air Force Aid Society.

Specifically, this benefit game's funds help the Armed Force's official relief agencies to provide: financial assistance to widows and orphans of servicemen . . . care and assistance to service personnel, to wounded servicemen and their families . . . hospital medical-assistance to needy families and dependents of servicemen . . . prenatal and obstetrical care to needy servicemen's families . . . and cash grants to service personnel and dependents in emergencies.

BEARS-IRON MEN

The 1925 Chicago Bears were the real Iron Men of modern day football. Featuring Red Grange, who joined the squad on Thanksgiving Day, the Bears of that season played seven games in nine days, for an all-time record. Three of the games were played on successive afternoons. The Bears of 1925 played in Philadelphia, New York, Washington, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Chicago from December 5th to December 13th.

They Coach the Bears

The coaching staff of the Chicago Bears has been directly responsible for the streamlined brand of football now being played throughout the country by the professionals, collegians and high school teams. George Halas pioneered the development of the modern T Formation with Man in Motion in the early days of the Chicago Bears, following up on the innovations first put in use by his former coach, Bob Zuppke. Ralph Jones, who days of the Chicago Bears, following up on the innovations first put in use by his former coach, Bob Zuppke. Ralph Jones, who led the Bears in 1930-31- and '32, made great contributions to the modern "T," and Halas, Clark Shaughnessy, Luke Johnsos, Hunk Anderson and Paddy Driscoll collaborated through the years to continue the development of this wide open system of play.

The 1955 coaching staff of the Chicago Bears consists of George Halas, head coach; Luke Johnsos, Clark Shaughnessy, Paddy Driscoll, Phil Handler and Clyde Turner, assistants.

GEORGE
HALAS
Organizer, player, head coach and a pillar of the National Football League.
This is his thirtieth year at the helm of the Bears. He has won more games than any other coach in football history, 357.

George Halas was born in Chicago on Feb. 2, 1895. He attended Crane Tech and entered the University of Illinois in 1914, winning letters in football, basketball and baseball. Captained Illini cage team and was one of Zuppke's standout gridders in 1915-16 and '17. Joined Navy in World War I and played on Great Lakes team which won Service championship and defeated Mare Island in Rose Bowl. Joined New York Yankees in 1919 and was a spring training sensation. Played professional football with Hammond that fall. Joined A. E. Staley Company of Decatur, Ill., in 1920 and organized famous Decatur Staleys, who tied for the title that fall. Moved club to Chicago in 1921, where it became known as the Chicago Bears. Retired as an active player in 1929. Has coached Bears all but six seasons (1930-31-32) and during World War II, when he served with Navy as Welfare and Recreation Officer of Pacific Fleet. Returned in 1946 to lead Bears to their seventh world championship. The Halases have a son and a daughter.

Halas

Johnsos

JOHNSOS In his twenty-seventh season with the Bears, as a player and coach. Luke was born on Chicago's northside on Dec. 9, 1905. He attended Schurz High School before matriculating to Northwestern University. As a Wildcat, Luke won honors in baseball and football in 1926-27 and '28. His baseball prowess won him a major league baseball trial with the Cincinnati Reds. Luke was a shortstop. Johnsos gave up baseball in 1929 and joined the Bears that fall as an end. He starred for seven seasons, teaming up with Bill Hewitt to form one of the top end combinations in the National Football League. Luke earned all-league honors in 1933.

Appointed assistant coach in 1937, Luke served in that capacity for six years, and was named co-coach with Hunk Anderson when George Halas entered the Navy in November, 1942. Johnsos and Anderson directed the Bears during the 1943-44 and '45 campaigns. In all, Luke has been associated with six Bear championship teams, as player or coach, Known as a keen student of football, Johnsos has made his contribution to the development of the modern T-Formation. A partner in the printing concern of Johnsos and Coppock, Luke is the club's champion father, with five children—four girls and a boy.

CLARK SHAUGHNESSY

In his fortieth season as a football coach. Shaughnessy has been a member of the Chicago Bears' staff since 1951. However, he collaborated with George Halas as early as 1937, and acted as a special adviser to the Bears' coaching staff for a number of years before officially becoming a member.

Clark Daniel Shaughnessy was born in St. Cloud, Minn., on March 6, 1892. He played fullback at the University of Minnesota from 1911 through 1914. His first coaching job was at Tulane University in 1915. He developed a national championship team at Tulane in 1925, and moved to Loyola of the South two years later. Shaughnessy became head coach at the University of Chicago in 1933, and served in that capacity through 1939, when the Maroons abandoned collegiate football. He led Stanford to the Pacific Coast Conference crown and a Rose Bowl triumph over Nebraska in 1940, scoring with the T Formation, Shaughnessy also coached at the University of Maryland, University of Pittsburgh, the Washington Redskins and the Los Angeles Rams. He has one son and two daughters.

Shaughnessy

Driscoll

JOHN L. "PADDY" DRISCOLL

Paddy has been one of Chicago's "athletic greats" since 1913. He joined the Bears' staff in 1941. Driscoll was a three sports star at Evanston and gained national recognition as a football and baseball standout at Northwestern University. He ranks as nition as a football and baseball standout at Northwestern University. He ranks as one of the gridiron's greatest drop kickers.

Born on January 11, 1896, in Chicago, Paddy first teamed up with George Halas as a member of the famed Great Lakes Naval Training Station eleven in 1918. He turned in one of the greatest individual performances in Rose Bowl history, Paddy originally signed to play with the Bears in 1920, but his contract was awarded to the Cardinals. He was a One Man show for the Cardinals for six seasons, while also coaching the team in 1921 and 1922. Driscoll joined the Bears in 1926 and celebrated his reunion with Halas by scoring all the points as the Bears defeated the Cardinals, 16 to 0. He retired as an active player in 1928, Paddy coached St. Mel's High School and became head coach at Marquette University in 1939. The Driscolls have a son.

PHIL HANDLER

In his twenty-sixth year in the National Football League as a player or coach. This is Handler's fourth season as a member of the Bears' staff. Born in Fort-Worth, Texas, on July 1, 1908, Phil starred as a guard on the Texas Christian University teams of 1927-28-29.

He joined the Chicago Cardinals in 1930, playing with the immortal Ernie Nevers, who also coached the club. Phil was an outstanding pro lineman for six seasons. He was elevated to the Cardinal coaching staff in 1936, serving as line assistant to Milan Creighton. Handler also was first assistant to Nevers, when the latter took over the coaching job a second time, and aided Jimmy Conzelman in 1940-41 and '42, Appointed head coach in 1943, Handler also led the Cardinals in 1945. He became line coach to Conzelman again in 1946, and served in that capacity for three seasons. Handler was co-head coach in 1949. He served as chief assistant to Curley Lambeau in 1950. In all, as player and coach, Handler was with the Cardinals for 22 years. The Handlers have a son and a daughter.

CLYDE "BULLDOG" TURNER

Second season as a member of the Bears' coaching staff. One of the all-time greats of the Bears, and the National Football League. Turner was born in Sweetwater, Texas, on March 10, 1919. He attended Sweetwater High School and matriculated to Hardin Simmons University in 1936.

Turner developed into the greatest player ever to attend Hardin Simmons. He won Little All American and All American honors in 1939, and was the Bears' first pick in the National Football League Player "Draft." Turner starred in the East-West game and the College All Star tilt. He won the first string center post with the Bears as a rookie in 1940, and played an important part as the Bears took the world championship, trouncing Washington 73 to 0 in the title playoff. Turner succeeded Mel Hein as all-pro center the following year, and made all-National League seven times. He was named all-service in 1945 as a member of the Third Air Force eleven. Turner was voted the all-time All American center in a national poll in 1946. Retired as an active player in 1952 and coached at Baylor University in 1953. The Turners have two children.

THE TRAINER — ED ROZY

A Bear since 1948. Rozy aided the late Andy Lotshaw, who had been the Bears' trainer since the club was first organized. Ed is a product of the famous University of Illinois trainer, Matt Bullock. He came to the Bears from Marquette University, where besides being athletic trainer, Rozy also served as a member of the coaching staff. Ed coached boxing, wrestling and fencing. He is recognized as one of the top men in his profession. The Rozys have two daughters.
